The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

The Little Ol' Beer Brewer

Recently we did a piece about the sorry plight of retailers who operate neighborhod liquor stores.

The State of California had just declared null and void its long-standing alcoholic beverage minimum price law. This allowed free enterprise and with it, lower prices.

Theoretically, it would reduce the consumers cost of living by a buck or two a quart. "More swallow for your dollar" could become a tippler's slogan.

But in the process of cutting the cost of booze, it also cut the profits of the purveyors — many of whom had become fiscal fat cats while price controls were on.

The small operator says he has no place to absorb the reduction in profts he is now suffering. His inventory, other than beverages, is rather mere. Yet he must meet reduced prices of his big competitor. If he doesn't he loses business and folds. If he does he faces bankruptcy.

The big boys, described as supermarket conglomerates, may, it is said, reduce profits on alcoholic beverages and make up the profits by raising prices on bread, butter and hamburger.

There is a wide variance of opinion on the properness of the state in banning minimum pricing.

A strong opinion now rising is that food consumers will subsidize the drinking habits of the drinking class by way of higher food prices.

Into this maelstrom of socio-economic upheaval comes a U.S. Senator, Alan Cranston. He noted that federal controls on wine making are being dumped and became alarmed when the bureau which controlled home winemaking offered to put controls on home beer brewing.

Cranston bristled at that thought and took on the whole system. As a result, it is fair to assume that soon Americans may make all the wine and beer they can consume in the privacy of their own home.

When that happens there will be more alcoholic beverage shops going out of business as sales decline and the price of bread, butter and hamburger will rise again in supermarkets as a result.

Here's Cranston's view of the beer-wine scene:

"Nobody seems to know why home beer brewers should register with the federal government, as a bill now pending in Congress would require," Cranston said.

"The Office of General Counsel thinks it is a requirement of the regulatory office and regulatory people think it is a requirement of the criminal enforcement branch which, in turn, is silent on the question but when pressed will admit, informally, that the notion originated many years ago with two officials, long since retired," Cranston said.

He said a similar requirement for home wine makers has never served any useful purpose and is about to be dropped.

But the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF), he said, "apparently from a motive no more compelling than to keep its clerks busy, now wants to shift its registration program over from home made wine to home brewed beer".

Cranston, who hopes to kill this "white collar leaf-raking" by government employees, has sent this communication to his fellow Senators:

1. Since the repeal of Prohibition in 1933, home wine makers have been required to register with BATF, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms. Approximately 20,000 citizens do so annually. BATF dutifully receives, files, and maintains these registration forms but does nothing else with them.

BATF frankly isn't interested in the forms. There is no reason why the agency should be. But since the law requires citizens to register, BATF does its job. Clerks are hired to read the forms to make sure all the little boxes are properly checked.

Then the form is stamped and a copy mailed to the home wine maker. The other two copies are filed somewhere in the branch office, presumably kept for a while and then thrown away. All at cost to the taxpayer and needless annoyance to the citizen.

No one at BATF can ever recall any enforcement activity involving a home wine making registration form. No one has been presecuted for failing to register, and information contained on the form has never led to an investigation.

2. Home brewing of beer, according to BATF, is illegal. So unnumbered thousands of home brewers of beer simply do not register. Though they are technical violators of the law, home brewers of beer have been free of government-imposed paperwork as a practical matter. And as far as home beer brewers' alleged illegal brewing is concerned, BATF by its own admission, couldn't care less.

3. This year BATF has, laudably and at long last, supported legislation (H.R. 1337) to eliminate registration requirements for home wine makers. But, the agency, apparently from a motive no more compelling than to keep its clerks busy, now wants to shift its registration program over from home made wine to home brewed beer.

4. No one speaking for BATF or Treasury can say definitely and convinctingly why it is necssary to require home alcoholic beverage makers to register with the government. The Office of General Counsel thinks it is a requirement of the regulatory office and the regulatory people think it is a requirement of the criminal enforcement branch, which, in turn, is silent on the question, but when pressed will admit, informally, that the notion originated many years ago with two officials, long since retired.

In physics, energy and matter never disappear. So it seems in the bureaucracy, regulation and paperwork never disappear. Objects of regulation come and go, but never the government requirement that someone, somewhere, must fill out a purposeless piece of paper — in triplicate — so that little boxes can be checked and copies stamped, stapled, and filed. It doesn't seem to make much difference to the bureaucratic universe what is checked, stamped, stapled and filed just so long as the checking, stamping, stapling and filing go on endlessly.

This kind of white collar leaf-raking gives government and government workers, an ill-deserved bad name. Government has an important job to do. We have good people in government who want to do that job. It is an insult to them — is well as an imposition on citizen-brewers and an outrage against all taxpayers — for Congress to enact legislation mandating such

LOOK OUT, TRASH! — If you're a soiled napkin, a disheveled doughnut bag or an abominable beer can, you better not show your putrid face on or near Broadway in Lemon Grove Saturday, 'cause Clean-Up Week is coming and you're in for it Hit men, counter-clockwise from upper left, Cub Scout Chris Provinzano, Boy Scout Kurt Caldwell, Cub Scouts Pat McCart, Patrick Buttron and Scott Wells, Boy Scout Loren Hobbs and Cub Scout Mark Buttron. Lemon Grove CofC Kicks Off Clean-Up Week on Saturday

By Bob Melton

If trash could talk, there'd be a hot tip traveling the garbage grapevine right now to "get outa town" before Saturday morning.

That's when five Boy Scout troops, two Cub Scout packs, assorted other youngsters from the Lemon Grove Youth Center and various paintbrush-wielding merchants will descend on the trash, weeds and graffiti littering Broadway and adjacent streets in Lemon Grove.

It's the annual Clean-Up Week sponsored by the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, and them trashpickers mean business.

Co-chairmen for the Clean-Up Week, officially Saturday through next Saturday, Sept. 30, are Dr. Robert Sutton, Lemon Grove School District superintendent, and local businessman Bob Holaday—who'll be taking a real "seat-of-the-pants" role in the campaign.

Holaday, who usually drives a tow truck for his own Lemon Grove Towing, will be piloting the "Litter Gitter" truck donated for the occasion by McDonald's Restaurants, picking up trash bags as they are filled.

Those bags will be filled by members of five Boy Scout Troops and two Cub Scout packs, organized for the occasion by local resident and Scout mother Helen Hobbs.

Bags and dumping service will be provided free of charge by Thomas Disposal. Dumping bins will be located along the railroad tracks, one directly in front of City Hall, 3568 Main St., and one further south, between Broadway and Canton.

Residents are encouraged to take part by cleaning up their streets and neighborhoods. Filled trash bags may be deposited in the collection bins along the railroad tracks.

Lemon Grove Fire Chief Bob Adams and Dottie Pettes, director of the Lemon Grove Youth Center, have organized groups of young people to remove weeds from the railroad right-of-way. Weed abatement has been going on several days already this month.

At least three painting crews have been organized to paint over graffiti on the walls of local businesses and other buildings. Paint will be donated at cost by Lemon Grove Hardware, San Diego Glass & Paint and Walters & Sons Painting Contractors, and some paint has been donated free by persons wishing to remain anonymous, co-chairman Sutton said.

Paint has also been donated by owners of buildings plagued with the growing problem of graffiti, a special target of the clean-up campaign.

Clean-Up Week, Sutton said, will conclude with awards presented to participating groups during the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Kids' Day next Saturday, Sept. 30.

Hobbs Resigns Plan Commission; Applications for Replacement Open

The resignation of Joseph L. Hobbs from the Lemon Grove Planning Commission was accepted with regrets by the L.G. City Council Monday night. Hobbs is leaving the city.

In June, when the commission was first appointed, 22 applications were on hand. These were screened by Mayor James Dorman, Vice Mayor Dr. Robert Burns and City Manager Jack Shelver. Applicants not chosen will be contacted and new applications will be accepted until October 13. The same screening committee will serve.

In other business:

Buono John Ghianni asked for an appeal on the number of parking spaces for his property at 7977 North ave. The hearing was set for October 21.

A claim by Kathy Broyles who tripped in a sidewalk hole and dropped her infant in arms was referred to the city's insurance carrier. Mrs. Broyles asked for medical care costs for the child.

A request for a 6-month extension of time by former supervisor Dick Brown representing developers of an 81-unit apartment complex in the 8400 block of Broadway was granted. Actual construction has not begun and the special use permit will expire without approval.

The council agreed to make the community of Mulege in Mexico as a sister city and found no problem in having several such sisters. A city in England has long been in that category.

One result of the adoption will be to present Mulege pronounced Mule-i-hay) with the City's surplus fire truck. The City had offered it for public sale for a minimum of $5,000 but received no bids. Storage has become a problem. Manager Shelver said "It's (the truck) not old enough to be an antique and not new enough to be of value." A major problem, he noted, is that the pumper has a 500gpm capacity and even small departments prefer 1,000gpm. Staff will investigate the possibility of selling it cheaper or making it a gift to Mulege.

Some of the councilmen will be attending a League of California Cities annual conference Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Anaheim.

Mayor Dorman was named to serve on the Traffic Advisory Committee.

Sale of Sam's Cafe Fails to Materialize

The Lemon Grove business fraternity was going to lose Park and Josephine Sam, popular owners for the past 14 years of Sam's Far East Restaurant at 7816 Broadway.

The couple had agreed last month to sell their business to a pair from Taiwan after which the Sams planned to travel. They got passports for Hong Kong, Taiwan and mainland China.

Last week the deal fell through so the Sams will continue to operate their restaurant.

But their newly acquired passports are good for 5 years, they said.

De-installation of retiring officers will be at 8 p.m. with immediate past-Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis Division 11, Harold "Shorty" Dundore, presiding.

To be installed for the 1978-79 year are Robert Adams, Lemon Grove fire chief, president; Kenneth Kunkel, insurance and real estate broker, first vice-president; Bruce Baker, manager California First Bank of Lemon Grove, second vice-president; William Allen, assistant manager of Crocker Bank, Lemon Grove, treasurer; and Warren Buckner, retired industrial engineer as secretary.

The new board of directors will consist of James Cummins, optometrist, Lemon Grove; Robert Farris, minister, Spring Valley; E. K. Mott, retired Merchant Marine; Dr. Robert Swenson, dentist, Lemon Grove; James Terry, retired school principal; Jerry Walter, jeweler, Lemon Grove; and William Walters of Walters & Sons Painters, Lemon Grove. All newly installed officers will assume office October 1.

Incoming president Bob Adams emphasized that he "would like all Kiwanis members and their families, as well as friends, to attend the installation to help start a new Kiwanis year for the youth and senior citizens of the community."

Happy Birthday!

United States Postal Service in Lemon Grove will be 85 years old tomorrow.

Postal records show that the first Lemon Grove post office was established on September 22, 1893, said Mike Ugalde, current Lemon Grove postmaster.

Mayor Proclaims White Cane Days

A proclamation citing the Lions Club International in general and the Lemon Grove Lions Club in particular has been issued by Lemon Grove Mayor James V. Dorman.

The mayor noted that more than a million Lions members in the free world have an almost universal concern for the blind and those with sight deficiencies and that the Lions Club volunteers manpower and leadership and pays for materials leaving 100 percent of the proceeds to be used in sight and serving and blind work.

White Cane days locally are October 6 and 7.

UW/CHAD Picks E. County Veep

Bob Nelson, district manager of San Diego Gas & Electric Co., has been named a vice chairman of the East County drive for the UNITED WAY/CHAD Combined Campaign.

Nelson, a resident of San Carlos, is in charge of the business division. In his campaign position, he will head a team of business leaders from Spring Valley, Lemon Grove, El Cajon, Santee, Lakeside, Alpine-Mountain Empire and La Mesa, seeking operating funds for some 200 human care services supported by the Combined Campaign.

Nelson was appointed by Ben Polak, East County chairman.

Sups Slash $27 Millions From New County Budget

A slash of $27 million was ordered by the County Board of Supervisors from its 1978-79 budget for county services.

The budget, now $492,914,-654, was approved by a 4-1 vote.

The budget contains $21,840 of local Transportation Funds and $1,000,000 for self insurance liability claims.

$3.6 million was cut to meet the requirements of Prop. 13.

In adopting the new budget, the Board allocated $800,00 of the $3.6 million to finance bond indebtedness and thus eliminated the need to levy a debt service tax rate.

The Board also voted to increase the Facilities Development budget by $1.5 million through adding startup costs for the South County Regional Center.

The remaining $1.3 million was allocated by the Board to the contingency reserve.

The contingency reserve funds, which will be used to help finance the 1978-80 fiscal year budget and take care of special needs during this fiscal year, now totals $15,781,000.

Prior to adoption of the 1978-79 budget, Supervisor Lucille V. Moore, Chairwoman of the County Board of Supervisors, credited the Board and County staff with responding under pressure in preparing the budget.

"This is the latest date the County budget has ever been approved since normally we are required to adopt a budget by August 30. The fact that we missed this deadline by only a few days is remarkable.

"The Board of Supervisors also has been responsive to the demands of constituents for lower property taxes. Proposition 13 is now the law, and this Board is committed to make it work.

MARCHING FLAGS OF BROADWAY — The American flags erected along Broadway in Lemon Grove from time to time, courtesy of the Soroptimist Clubs of Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, aren't really "marching" in close-order drill. It just looks that way because of the compressed perspective effect of the long telephoto lens (300mm) with which they were photographed by News Editor Bob Melton.

SDSU Offers Nursing Courses That Apply Toward Relicensing

Seven short but intensive courses to help nurses stay abreast of modern nursing techniques are being offered by San Diego State University's College of Extended Studies during the fall semester.

There's An Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

'This feeling is driving me foolish'

Q. This man I have been in love with from my high school days is troubling my mind. We went together in high school and broke off. Later on I married and it didn't work out. I got a divorce. Years later this high school boy friend was back in my hometown, and we ran into each other. Every time he was in town he would come over. The feeling I had for him was still there. I was in love with him. The problem is he has lately gotten married, and I can't get him out of my mind and heart. I'm trying. What else is there to do? This feeling is driving me foolish.

A. Better get rid of your feeling for your old high school friend or it will do more than drive you foolish. It will get you into a lot of trouble.

He is married. He is another woman's husband and you have no right to entertain ideas about him. So if you want to make sense out of your life, put him out of your mind; and you can do that if you have a mind to.

Perhaps you might find help in our booklet, "What To Do When," which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

A hurt that won't leave

Q. Before he died my husband told me all about the women he went with. He said he had to tell me. He ran around on me for 34 years. I thought he did, but I loved him so much and didn't want to mess up my children's home. I do know my husband died with a guilty conscience. He let me know that lots times before he died. Please tell me how I can get over a hurt that won't leave me.

A. Your husband used you as a confessor. His guilt, he felt, had to come out and he laid it on you.

While this may be considered weakness on his part, it also is a great compliment to you that in his mind, only you could absolve him from sin.

He is now in eternity and in the hands of God. If you forgive him you will find comfort and the hurt will pass away.

Shy and without confidence

Q. I'm a girl with a problem of worrying constantly and thinking the worst is going to happen. It's very hard for me to talk to people, and I have few friends. I want to get a job in a store, but I'm chicken because I'm shy and have no confidence. I believe in God, but I don't understand why there is disease and unhappiness on this earth that God made. So I am fearful. Do you think you can help?

A. The only way to get over worry and anxiety feelings is to cultivate the opposite mental attitude, which, of course, is positive thinking and faith. This won't come easy, but it is possible to change your thought pattern.

Whenever a worry thought comes, be it small or large, cancel it out by a positive thought. Affirm, and do it strongly, that the worst is not going to happen, but the best is going to take place.

You will have to think and to practice your way out of your trouble. But take heart, many others have done it successfully.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564. If you would like to talk directly with a Prayer Partner, call Prayer Line (212) 532-2700. Reduced long-distance rates are in effect nights and weekends.

This Week's RECIPE

Mushroom-Cheese Toast

By Susanne Williams

Mushrooms by themselves are a somewhat tasteless although low-calorie affair, but mixed with other ingredients they add elegance and subtle flavor to the simplest dish.

"Croque Champignon," a variation of the French bistro staple "Croque Monsieur" which might be translated as "cheese toast," makes a delicious appetizer. Served in larger quantities, however, and accompanied by a fresh, cool salad, it transforms easily into a tasty dinner treat.

This recipe, for four, is designed as an appetizer. For dinner, simply double the amounts.

Croque Champignon

4 slices white bread
4 slices American or Mozarella cheese
½ pound fresh mushrooms, washed and chopped
5 strips bacon, diced
1 large onion, diced
Chopped parsley
Salt, pepper, soy sauce to taste

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Place cheese on bread and bake until cheese melts. Meanwhile, heat bacon and onions in skillet. Add mushrooms and simmer until onions and mushrooms are soft. Add chopped parlsey, salt, pepper and soy sauce to taste. Remove cheese toast from oven, top with mushroom mixture and serve immediately.

Folksinger Hinton To Teach UCSD Extension Music Course

Sam Hinton, a nationally-known folksinger who's been studying, performing and teaching folklore since the 1930s, will give San Diegans a chance to learn the valuable historical and social meanings of American folk music in a fall UC San Diego Extension course.

Scheduled for 7-9:45 p.m. Mondays, Sept. 25-Nov. 27 in Room 3010, Undergraduate Science Bldg. on UCSD's Revelle Campus, the class is titled "Folk Music in America" and costs $60.

According to Hinton, this lecture / demonstration course will deal with folksong and instrumental music as literature, as music, as culture reflectors, and as subjects of scholarly study.

Hinton has been studying folksongs and folklore since his childhood in East Texas where his mother played the piano and other family members tried various musical instruments. The guitar became young Sam's favorite instrument

From 1936-38 Hinton went on tour with Major Bowes Units and other shows as a folksinger and musician, spent another couple of years majoring in zoology at UCLA, and since then has continued his performance and teaching of folk music.

In addition to several folksong recordings for Decca and other record companies, Hinton recorded a series of 62 songs for the Folk Music Archives at the Library of Congress, presented a San Diego radio folksong show for two years, and taught for several summers at the Idyllwild School of Music and the Arts, all of this in addition to his duties as curator for 11 years of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography Aquarium-Museum.

For information on enrollment in "Folk Music in America," call UCSD Extension at 452-3400.

Green Bay Packers Here To Test Chargers Sun.

Introductions are in order when the San Diego Chargers and Green Bay Packers, infrequent opponents from opposite sides of pro football, kick off in a National Football League game at 1 p.m. Sunday in San Diego Stadium.

The Chargers and Packers have met twice. Green Bay won 22-20 in a Monday night game in San Diego in 1970 and the Packers won 34-0 in 1974 in Green Bay.

It will be the Chargers' first at home against an NFC opponent since they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 43-24 in 1976. The Chargers' most recent game against an NFC team was in 1977, when they were beaten 20-0 in Pontiac, Michigan, by the Detroit Lions. Since the merger of American Football League and National Football League teams in 1970, the Chargers have posted a 9-14 record against NFC squads, 6-5 at home and 3-9 on the road.

6 members of the 1978 Chargers played in the 1974 contest at Green Bay: quarterback Dan Fouts, running back Don Woods, fullback Bo Matthews, guard Doug Wilkerson, tackle Russ Washington, and linebacker Don Goode.

Last week the Chargers led Denver 14-13 when Rick Upchurch broke a 75-yard punt return for a touchdown with 3:17 remaining. Lonnie Perrin added another touchdown and the Broncos won 27-14, dropping the Chargers to 1-2 and into a three-way tie for third place with Seattle and Kansas City in the AFC West.

End Fred Dean leads the Chargers in quarterback sacks with 4 for 21 yards. Dean had 6 for 49 yards in 11 games last year. The Chargers have reached opposing quarterbacks 9 times for 70 yards in 3 games. In 1977, when the Chargers set a club record with 44 sacks for 363 yards, they had 10 sacks for 79 yards after three games. Don Goode is the Chargers' unofficial leader in tackles with 28.

Radio coverage begins Sunday at 10:50 a.m. on KSDO (1130) and the Chargers' network with Pat Curran's NFL weekend. Chargers Talk and the Tommy Prothro Show follow. Chargers Talk resumes after the Lockerroom Show following the game. The Columbia Broadcasting System will televise the game. Lindsey Nelson and Paul Hornung will be the broadcasters.

Ron Esau Claims Crown At El Cajon Speedway

Ron Esau followed John Dineen to the wire in the main event Saturday night at Cajon Speedway. He took second place but he acquired enough points to take the 1978 El Cajon Stock Car Assn. superstock title.

Esau's second place finish earned him 210 points. With Gary Crossland, Esau's nearest rival quitting after 26 laps in the feature, it left Esau with a 660-point lead. With only 2 races remaining, the maximum number of points possible to earn is 490.

Earlier in the evening, Holly Stahl wrapped up the powderpuff championship when she finished 3rd in the ladies Grand Prix.

Second place was likewise locked up. Gary Crossland has that clinched but Mark Norris and Larry Owens are only 5 points apart for 3rd.

This week 40 stocks are expected to qualify with 2 trophy dashes kicking off the racing action. There will also be a super destruction derby Saturday in which both men and women will participate.

The card Saturday night will also include kiddie rides for spectators in the west side grandstands with a nominal charge being made. All proceeds will go to Muscular Dystrophy.

Following Saturday night's race, only 3 races will remain on the 1978 schedule at Cajon Speedway. The super stock Grand Prix will be held September 30 with an open competition race for the popular cars a week later. The midgets will close the track on October 14 with their Grand Prix.

Famous Names Listed For Riverside 'Prix'

RIVERSIDE — The finest field of world class road racing drivers since the early days of the Times-Mirror Grand Prix will assemble at Riverside International Raceway for the traditional mid-fall weekend of speed October 14-15.

Among those competing in the California Grand Prix presented by First National City Travelers Checks will be formula one drivers Mario Andretti, Niki Lauda, Ronnie Peterson, Alan Jones, Jean-Pierre Jarier, Emerson Fittipaldi and Patrick DePailler, for starters.

The 3-race format will give road racing fans a sampling of the top American drivers from NASCAR's Winston Cup, USAC's Citicorp Cup and SCCA's Can-Am championship circuits.

8 of the top road racers in the world will drive equally prepared Camaros in the International Race of Champions qualifying event on Saturday, October 14, with 4 of them advancing to the final IROC road race Sunday afternoon.

They will face Bobby and Donnie Allison, Cale Yarborough and Neil Bonnett, who already qualified for the 12-driver field in a race against other top NASCAR racers at Michigan International Speedway, plus four USAC championship division drivers who will race in an IROC qualifier next week at Michigan.

On Sunday, October 15, the IROC finale will share top billing with the SCCA Citicorp Can-Am Challenge season finale, featuring Jones, George Follmer, Elliott Forbes-Robinson, Warwick Brown, Alain de Cadenet and Jarier.

Drivers will compete on Riverside's 2.55-mile, 8-turn Grand Prix course. The track will open Thursday, October 12, for practice and qualifying by IROC drivers, who will be joined on Friday, October 13, by the Can-Am entrants.

The Can-Am series, now in its second year since a lapse in the mid-1970s when formula 5000 cars were featured as the premiere North American road racers, has brought back the international flavor of the original Canadian-American Challenge born and bred at Riverside.

Tickets are on sale at the Raceway and all Ticketron outlets. The phone: 714/653-1161.

Fingers, Mayer Are HoC Stars

Rollie Fingers and Alan Mayer and amateur Greg Louganis have been named Stars of the Month for August by the Hall of Champions Breitbard Athletic Awards Committee.

Selected as San Diego's pro Star of the Year in 1977 on the basis of his brilliant relief pitching for the Padres, Fingers acquired his latest honor with a spectacular August mound record which produced six saves and enabled him to reduce his earned run average from 3.25 to 2.79. He allowed only one earned run in 15 innings of work.

Mayer was a standout performer for the San Diego Sockers, wound up with a goals against mark of 1.77 and established a North American Soccer League record by playing 2098 minutes in the nets. The steady goalie, who didn't miss a second of action during the entire season, figured prominently in the Sockers' drive to the playoffs and was named to the league's second all-star team.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle is a handsome, warm- hearted, All-American sportsman who undoubtedly likes to smell leaves burning in the fall, remembers to tip the postman at Christmas time, enjoys April rain and apple pie, watermelon, picnics, sma'l children and dogs.

He is also an astute gentleman who knows on which side of his bread he must apply his pat of butter. He holds the National Football League in trust for the American people and will fight to defend it against all comers. Even if they come from within.

Czar Peter is, first and foremost, commercially omnipotent. He has taken the NFL from the haphazard adventure it was, straight up the business charts to the multi-national autocracy it has become.

There is nothing NFL-wise that is too small or too unimportant for his attention. If you have millions and want to buy a team, or just a do'lar and want a souvenir, he sees to it your account is serviced.

Rozelle enjoys the challenges of life, but he is not overly fond of the irritations. He is too keenly intelligent and perceptive to allow an irritation to become a problem. Not on his watch.

Official's calls have been the source of fan complaints over the years, but have always been settled with a shrug of the NFL shoulder and a white-wash of the judgement rendered.

Things ain't going that way this year. National television audiences were treated to a pair of particularly inept appearing calls that seemed to have decided an Oakland win and a Denver tie.

Protests were given the usual whitewash job, but the ticket-buying public just wouldn't be satisfied. The lack of professionalism among its officials seemed to be the nerve to which Rozelle had to respond.

He chose a national television audience for his pontification, appearing with CBS sports commentator Brent Musberger during halftime of last week's Los Angeles-Dallas contest.

Rozelle has promised a "court of appeals" to decide the right and wrong of disputes over calls that affect the outcome of play. Aye, there's the rub.

The rule book does not cover any act of ineptness on the part of officials. Even though there are now 7 officials, there is no way to right a wrong or overrule a miss-tossed flag.

Perhaps we are too organized. Maybe 7 officials are 6 too many. Maybe officials are charged with too many rules. Maybe the idea of officialdom is headed in the wrong direction.

How about charging each head coach with enforcing the rules for his team? Make the head coach and his assistants responsible for the actions of their players?

If the end goes offside, the end coach gets 2 minutes in the penalty box. Unsportsmanlike conduct jails the head coach for 5 minutes. A second offense and the coach goes out on a game misconduct penalty.

Just use one official. Keep the referee and have him make all calls. Each team gets to challenge the Ref 3 times a half. Coaches will tend to save them, like they do timeouts, till the end of the half or the final minutes of the game.

On any challenge, both coaches and the Ref troop over to view television replays from as many angles as available and the protest is satisfied then and there, or the offended coach must formally notify the referee and suitable league officials he is filing a protest.

A court of coaching peers will sit in a conference judgment on all such protests during the week immediately following the action, and be empowered to change game results and make other penalties as they deem necessary, including loss of draft choices, cheer leaders and/or players to be named later.

Conference championship games and the Super Bowl protest judgements would be decided by fans in the stands. The official protest and the official's call would be announced, then a call for thumb up or thumbs down would be made with the greatest number deciding the issue. The offending player, of course, would be hung.

Football is a very serious matter and the actions listed above would certainly bring to the attention of the American people that football shouldn't be treated like some damn silly game.

Soccer Champ Joins Cosmos

The S. D. Sockers have entered into a loan agreement with the North American Soccer League champion New York Cosmos for the service of defender Laszlo Harsanyi.

Harsanyi, considered the Sockers most consistent performer by coach Hubert Vogelsinger, will take part in the Cosmos 9-game European tour, which begins with a match against Bayern Munich, the former club of Franz Beckenbauer. Other teams on the tour include Stuttgart, Chelsea, Atletico Madrid, and Red Star of Belgrade.

The loan agreement was reached after Cosmos coach Eddie Firmani requested the availability of the central defender, and the agreement covers only the upcoming tour. The two teams recently completed another player deal which sent American forward Tony Donlic to San Diego from New York for future considerations.

Sockers forward Ade Coker has begun an intensive rehabilitation program to strengthen his right knee following mid-season surgery to repair a complete dislocation. Team physician Ed Kreusser was very pleased with a recent examination. "Ade has gained 50 degrees of motion since the cast was removed, and he'll start some light running shortly. His progress is much better than we expected. We see no reason why he shouldn't be at full strength next season."

7 Sockers are currently in San Diego making all sorts of public appearances for the club. Ade Coker, Brian Joy, John Nusum, Derek Smethurst, Julie Veee, Mark Demling, and Gary Allison will be conducting numerous soccer clinics throughout the greater San Diego area.

The Sockers Speakers Bureau phone is 280-GOAL.

DM Records Set

Capped by a record single-day pari mutuel handle of $3,184,703 on the final afternoon of the 1978 season, Del Mar concluded its 43-day summer session by establishing all-time record figures for both attendance and pari mutuel handle.

Attendance for the meeting totaled 712,306 for a daily average of 16,565, marking an increase of .2% compared to the 1977 season, previously Del Mar's all-time best.

Pari mutuel handle totaled $100,052,821 for a daily average of $2,326,810, an increase of 7.6% over the '77 season.

Only Four Games Left On Padres Home Schedule

The end draws nigh for the Padres. 4 more home games. A game tonight with the Giants at the Big Stadium at 7 p.m. and three games against the Dodgers on September 29, and 30—and then the last game, October 1.

But baseball doesn't end then. There's the World Series of course, but where the Padres concern with stars-to-be starts Friday.

25 of the Padres most promising minor league prospects will polish their skills in the Arizona Instructional League starting Friday.

The team is made up primarily of first and second year players from Padre farm teams at Amarillo, Reno and Walla Walla. The squad includes 11 pitchers, three catchers, five infielders and six outfielders.

Former major league outfielder and longtime coach and scout Al Heist is the Director of Instruction and Camp Coordinator. He will be aided by Amarillo manager Glenn Ezell, Reno skipper Eddie Watt, minor league pitching instructor Warren Hacker and Hawaii manager Dick Phillips, who will work as camp hitting instructor. Padre skipper Roger Craig and coaches Doug Rader, Chuck Estrada and Billy Herman will also appear at the camp.

It might be noted the performance of Ozzzie Smith at the Instructional League last fall prompted the Padres to promote him to the major leagues where he is a prime candidate for rookie of the year honors. Ozzie's previous experience had been only at the Rookie League level.

Two young righthanders from Walla Walla head the pitching corps. Eighteen-year-old Andy Hawkins, the No. 1 pick of the Padres this past June was 8-3, 2.12. Teammate Steve Fireovid, who is 21, struck out 99 in 107-innings while going 9-2 with a 2.46.

Among the catchers, Brad Shames at Reno hit .359 with 50-RBI in 64 games. Also at Reno, firstbaseman Frank Hardy hit .346 while second-baseman Tim Flannery hit .350 with 20 stolen bases in 84 games.

Two Walla Walla outfielders had excellent first years. Al Richmond tied the Northwest League home run record with 17 while driving in 60 runs in 68 games. Mike Parker had 13 homers and 53 RBI in 54 games.

The 42-game Instructional League schedule begins September 22 and winds up November 1. In addition to the Padres, the Angels, Dodgers, Giants, Cubs, Mariners and Brewers all have teams in the league.

Bluegills Biting At San Diego Lakes

The annual summer bluegill bite is in full swing on the San Diego City Lakes with Sutherland, Otay, and Hodges leading the way.

High water which originally made the fish difficult to locate has provided excellent conditions for these feisty panfish.

Due to the abundance of food and "living space" the average size of bluegill kept by anglers has increased dramatically. With the fish averaging from 1/3 to 1/2 pound jumbo bluegill in the 1 pound class are showing up regularly with the largest to date a 1 1/2 pounder caught at Lake Hodges.

Redworms and meal worms are the traditional fare for bluegill and have been the best baits this season. Terminal tackle consists of 1 or 2 hooks ranging from size 8 to 12. Depending on the season and conditions lead weights may be used for fishing on the bottom or a bobber used for fishing near the surface. Bobbers are favored by the majority of "bluegillers" at the present time.

Successful bluegill fishing does not require sophisticated tackle or electronic gadgets. In fact, more bluegill are caught locally on a simple cane pole than by any other mehtod. The lengthy cane pole allows the angler to reach in and around brush and tules where bluegill congregate.

Hawks Sign Bob Sauve

San Diego Hawks of the Pacific Hockey League have signed Bob Sauve who was the Hawks' leading scorer last season.

Sauve, a 5'-11", 180 pound center, collected 60 points (23-37) in just 41 games and finished 4th overall in the PHL scoring race. He scored 4 goals, including the game winner in his San Diego debut.

A native of Longueil, Quebec, Sauve played his junior hockey for the Juebec Remparts, a team which became famous several years earlier when it produced NHL superstar, Guy La Fleur.

Invited to the Philadelphia Flyers training camp in 1976, Sauve played that season for Baltimore and was third in Southern League scoring before breaking his toe.

A handsome, 22-year-old bachelor, Sauve was an instant hit with San Diego and figures to have an even better season on this year's upgraded team to be coached by Ron Ingram.

The Hawks will go to training camp under coach Ron Ingram in the latter part of October, and begin their season in early November.

The Hawks' offices are in the Sports Arena and season ticket sales are in progress.

Mail Bag

Opposition Made Bill Worthless

September 12, 1978

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your editorial comments regarding my Senate Constitutional Amendment, SCA-42, the Government Spending Limitation Proposal.

It is important to note, even with the demise of that proposal, that SCA-42 gained a bipartisan vote of 15 democrats and 14 Republicans when it passed the Senate.

Petty partisan politics only entered the picture when it was sent to the Assembly. Speaker Leo McCarthy and Revenue and Taxation Committee Chairman Willie Brown killed SCA-42 for the sole reason that I am the Republican nominee for Attorney General.

The stole the idea of our proposal and then amended a bill by Senator Garamendi, SCA-61, but they made it a Spending Invitation Amendment, not a Spending Limitation Amendment.

As the Assembly amended SCA-61, it would have permitted state government to spend more money than it is now expected to spend in the next four years. The Senate recognized that SCA-61 would be worthless and it only received 13 aye votes, needing 27 votes for passage.

The people of California will not have a government spending limit proposal to vote on in November, thanks to the politics of this election year. That is to be regretted by every California voter.

If my mail is any criteria, since the defeat of SCA-42, it would appear that the people may once again turn to the grass-roots movement to place limits on government spending, much as they did on property taxes with Proposition 13.

Most cordially,
George Deukmejian

Russian Pianist Scheduled For Benefit Symphony Concert

Celebrated pianist Emil Gilels will perform with the San Diego Symphony on November 15 in a special pension fund benefit concert for the musicians of the orchestra. Symphony Music Director Peter Eros will conduct the all-Tchaikovsky program: Fantasy Overture from "Romeo and Juliet," Symphony No. 2 from "Little Russian" and Piano Concerto No. 1 with Emil Gilels.

Born in Odessa, Russia, Gilels began his studies at the Odessa Institute of Music and Drama at the age of five. A youthful phenomenon, he created a sensation with his first public recital at 13, prior to his entry into the Odessa Conservatory.

At 17, Gilels was sent to Moscow as Odessa's entry in the first all-Soviet contest for performers. He walked away with the top prize, the first of many honors he was to receive, including, from his own country, the coveted People's Artist of the USSR and the Lenin Prize.

When he was 22 Gilels entered the Ysaye Competition in Brussels. He won first prize and seemed destined for a brilliant international career. But World War II intervened, and, aside from concert appearances in Russia, he devoted his time to a second career as a professor at the Moscow Conservatory.

After the war, Gilels resumed his performing career, appearing in London in 1953, in Paris in 1954 and subsequently in Italy, Switzerland, Holland and Belgium. Everywhere he played he received overwhelming acclaim and his 1955 American debut was to prove no exception. The first major Soviet musician to perform before audiences in the United States since Serge Prokofiev in 1921, Gilels thrilled the musical world.

Tickets for the single Civic Theatre performance by Emil Gilels are priced at $15, $12.50 and $10 will be sold on a priority basis with season subscribers' orders filled first according to date of receipt. For special ticket order form or information, phone the San Diego Symphony office at 239-9721.

'Lysistrata' Scheduled At S'Western College

The Theatre Arts Department at Southwestern College presents the play "Lysistrata" at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and again Sept. 28, 29 and 30, in the Arena Theatre, Mayan Hall. A woman's strike for peace using the most powerful weapon in the feminine arsenal forms the core of this, the most perfectly constructed and continuously popular of Aristophanes' plays.

Lysistrata, played by Paula Sandoval, organizes the women of Athens in a boycott to deprive their husbands of their love until they give up war. The resulting men's dismay and counterattack, the women's valiant defense of their temporary citadel of virtue, and the final victory of the female cause creates a superb comedy

General admission is $2, students $1.50 and A.S.O. members $1. Reservations may be made by calling the Community Services Office at 421-1691.

LANDMARK
COMBINATION SAVING→CHECKING ACCOUNT

INTEREST ON ALL YOUR MONEY.

Beginning November 1, you can earn interest on all your money. You simply open a Landmark Combination Saving → Checking Account with us. It's a whole new way to bank.

As you probably know, a bank cannot legally pay you interest on your checking account. But beginning November 1, we can automatically transfer funds from your savings account to your checking account to cover your checks. We transfer just enough to cover each check as it comes in. We also transfer from your checking to your savings, so you always have a zero balance in checking, and a maximum balance in savings, where it is doing you the most good.

A Landmark savings account pays 5% compounded-daily, which gives an annual yield of 5.13%. You can actually earn more money in this Account than if you placed your savings in a higher interest account and maintained a separate checking account. The reason is that none of your money is "locked up" in a checking account earning no interest. The Table at the bottom of this page shows the annual gain for a person that presently has a $3,000 savings balance and a separate checking account that has an average balance of $900, which is typical. Come into any of our Branches and we can show you what your benefits will be, using your own account balances.

There's no service charge for this account, but if your combined Saving/Checking balance falls below $3,000 during the statement cycle there will be a monthly charge of $4.50.

How to get a Landmark Account
We are accepting applications for the Landmark account now, so that a Checking account can become a Landmark account automatically as soon as our MONEY MANAGEMENT TRANSFER SERVICE is legally available. This new regulation is scheduled to be effective November 1, 1978. Stop by one of our convenient offices and sign a signature card, an application and a Money Management Transfer authorization. Until the legal start-up date, keep only what you need in your Checking account by using your 7/24 card to electronically transfer funds between your Savings and Checking accounts. You can maximize your interest-earning Savings now, and when the Landmark Money Management Transfer becomes available, we will do it for you.

Add interest to your life...

Assume you now have a $3,000 savings account and a checking account which has an average balance of $900. WITH THE NEW LANDMARK ACCOUNT YOU COULD BE EARNING INTEREST ON THE WHOLE $3,900.

Type of Present Savings Account	Present Interest	LANDMARK INTEREST	YOUR ANNUAL GAIN
S & L Passbook	$161.70	$199.94	$38.24
S & L 90-Day Account	$177.55	$199.94	$22.39

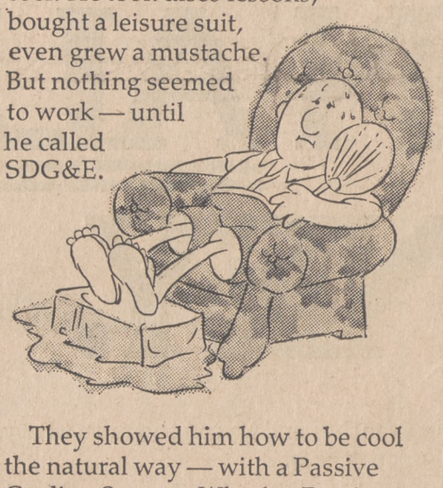
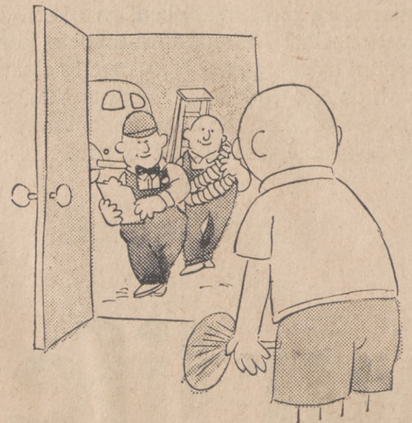
How Mr. Bimble learned to be cool.

Without air conditioning.

Mr. Bimble tried everything to be cool. He took disco lessons, bought a leisure suit, even grew a mustache. But nothing seemed to work — until he called SDG&E.

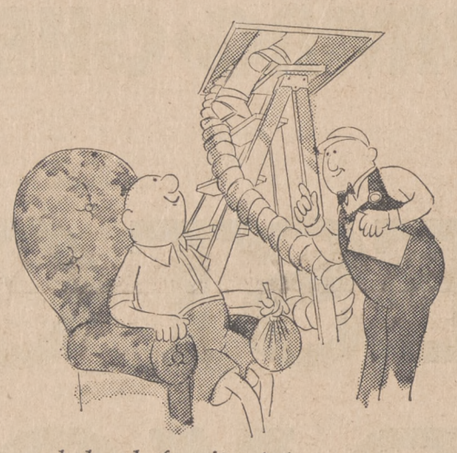


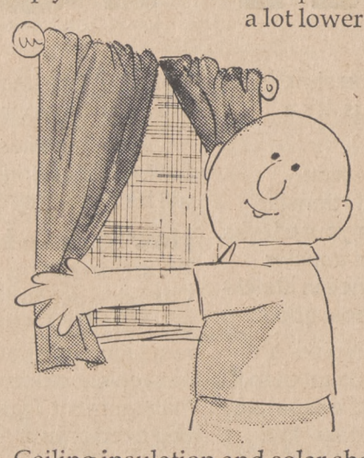
They showed him how to be cool the natural way — with a Passive Cooling System. What's a Passive Cooling System, Mr. Bimble asked? It's natural cooling with low cost building materials. It doesn't use a penny of energy. And it goes a long way toward lowering your energy bill. It consists of four simple things.



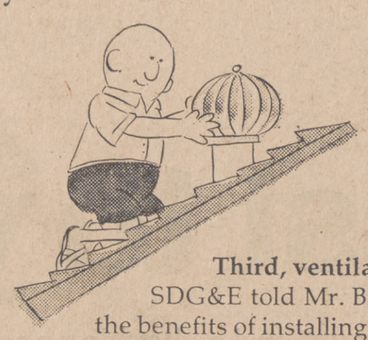
First, ceiling insulation. Certified R-19 insulation keeps your home cool and comfortable during the long, hot summer and may even reduce your winter heating costs by 19%.

Second, solar shade screens. They may stop up to 75% of the sun's heat and glare before it gets to your windows. They keep your home a lot cooler and more comfortable, and keep your air conditioner operating at a lot lower cost.





Ceiling insulation and solar shade screens are two of the best measures you can take.



Third, ventilation. SDG&E told Mr. Bimble the benefits of installing his own turbine ventilators on his roof to dissipate the heat that gets trapped in the attic. They can give you many other tips on low cost ventilators that you can install yourself.

Fourth, weatherstripping and caulking. More summer heat than you think slips through the cracks around windows and doors. Then, in the winter, adequate weatherstripping may save you up to 12% on your heating bill. SDG&E will be happy to advise you on places in your home where weatherstripping will do the most good.

Certified R-19 insulation and solar shade screens are both installed professionally. We will be happy to give you guidance on ventilation and weatherstripping, which are simple do-it-yourself projects. If you'd like to know more about a Passive Cooling System for your home, be cool, like Mr. Bimble, and send us the coupon below.

☐ I'd like more information about the Passive Cooling System and a free home insulation check.
I would like a representative to call during A.M. ☐ P.M. ☐ to set up an appointment.

Massa, Acrobatic Gorilla, Dies at Wild Animal Park

Massa, the acrobatic lowland gorilla from the San Diego Wild Animal Park who became famous for his leaping abilities, died September 8.

Keepers found 13-year-old Massa dead during early morning rounds. For the past two months, Massa had been suffering from a severe respiratory illness which preliminary laboratory studies indicated may be valley fever. Valley fever—coccidioidomycosis—is a fungus disease carried by spores in the soil causing fever and lung lesions. The diagnosis will be confirmed in a few weeks.

Dr. James Oosterhuis, Wild Animal Park veterinarian, said, "Massa was treated in July for a respiratory infection which did not respond to normal therapy. This resulted in further laboratory studies which indicated that Massa was probably suffering from valley fever.

"However, treating a gorilla for valley fever is unlike treating a human because it would mean anesthetizing a gorilla daily for four to six hours for at least two months to administer vaccine intravenously."

Dr. Oosterhuis said further that researchers at the University of California at Davis' Regional Primate Center are attempting to develop a vaccine which would be effective in control of valley fever. Once the vaccine is available, the remaining lowland gorillas at the Wild Animal Park, an adult male, two adult females, a juvenile male and a juvenile female, probably will be vaccinated.

Massa made news twice in his relatively short life span (gorillas may live as long as 30 to 40 years in captivity). First, Massa shared the home of Dr. Albert Schweitzer's daughter, Rhena Eckert-Schweitzer, in Lambarene, Gabon, Africa, until he became an overly-active two-year-old.

Then, in 1968, Massa was sent to the San Diego Zoo where he lived until his transfer to the Wild Animal Park in 1972.

Massa made news again this past March when he was sent to the Los Angeles Zoo on breeding loan. There, he climbed a wall separating him from some juvenile gorillas and leaped into their enclosure, surprising both the gorillas and the keepers.

Since the Los Angeles Zoo apparently could not contain so acrobatic a gorilla as Massa, he was sent back to the Wild Animal Park in June to await arrangement of another breeding loan.

Massa's body is being offered to a museum for display since lowland gorillas are considered an endangered species.

BoA to Pay Interest On Checking Accounts

Bank of America has announced details of 2 new services involving automatic transfers from savings to checking accounts that will allow depositors to earn interest on funds they keep for writing checks, beginning November 1.

The services combine features of both a checking account and a savings account. Customers will be able to write checks as they do now with their checking accounts, while earning interest as they do with savings accounts. The bank will also launch a major effort to educate the public on the payment of interest on funds used for checking.

One new service, to be known as the Interest/Checking Plan, will enable customers to earn interest on funds they normally keep for writing checks by maintaining balances in a special savings account.

The other service, which will be called Savings Overdraft Coverage, will offer overdraft protection tied to a savings account which earns interest.

FAA Seeks To Reduce Air-Crash Fire Deaths

The Federal Aviation Administration will develop a single comprehensive regulation aimed at reducing deaths from fire following aircraft crashes.

The agency has withdrawn four proposed rules, each of which dealt with a separate segment of the post-crash fire problem.

The decision to take a comprehensive approach to the problem of post-crash fires was made as a result of two public hearings last year that produced a clear consensus that the hazards addressed in the four proposed rules were interrelated and should be dealt with as one problem.

The comprehensive regulation will be based on the recommendations of a special committee of government and industry experts. It will deal with all the aspects of post-crash fires with the emphasis on reducing the number and severity of such fires and minimizing the adverse effects of the smoke and toxic gases given off by burning fuel and cabin interior materials.

The panel of experts will be known as the Special Aviation Fire and Explosion Reduction (SAFER) Advisory Committee. Members presently are being chosen from among approximately 90 persons whose names were submitted in response to an FAA call for nominations. The committee is expected to begin its work this fall.

New Ranger Appointed in Cleveland National Forest

Royal Mannion, formerly District Ranger for the Plumas National Forest in northern California, has been selected Descanso District Ranger, said Fritz deHoll, Cleveland National Forest Supervisor.

As the Descanso District Ranger in Alpine, Mannion will direct the management of natural resources in his District east of San Diego. This not only involves the integrated management of watershed, recreation, wildlife and timber, but also the protection of these resources from insects, disease and trespass.

Mannion's District includes the popular Mt. Laguna Recreation Area and the Laguna-Morena Demonstration Area, a multi-agency effort to demonstarte the highest state of the art in chaparral and fire management.

A native of Los Angeles, Mannion is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley with a degree in Forest Management. He has held positions with the Angeles, Lassen and Plumas National Forests.

Mannion, his wife Kathy and their three children will live in the East County.

Caltrans Scope Widened by Mills

Two transportation-related measures, (SB 1440, 1978), dealing with passenger rail services and mass transit, authorized by Senator James R. Mills, D-San Diego, have been signed by the Governor.

SB 1440 will broaden the role of the State Department of Transportation (Caltrans) in providing intercity and commuter passenger rail services.

The bill will also make Caltrans the only public agency eligible to receive federal operating subsidies for commuter rail services.

SB 1738 will require future preferential lanes for buses and other high-occupancy vehicles to be built for easy conversion to mass transit. Among other things Caltrans will be required to consider the likelihood of a guideway project being developed on a chosen freeway or freeway alignment before such dual-purpose construction could begin.

CREDIT CARD people say that 33 per cent of card-users pay their bills in full within the 30 days allowed, to avoid finance charges . . . A RECENT decision by a federal judge overrules the IRS ban on the use of tape recorders by taxpayers who are called in for an audit of their tax returns . . . THE CIVILIAN labor force in San Diego now totals 680,000, an increase of 4 per cent during the first six months of 1978.

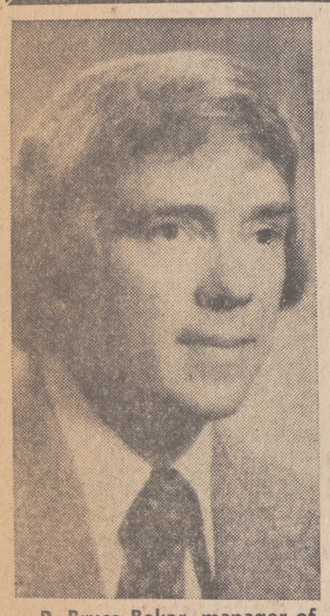
ENFORCE IT OR REPEAL IT — THE 55 MPH SPEED LIMIT! The CHP says California motorists are traveling more than 60 mph most of the time. Truckers had a chance to prove their claim that going over 55 mph was more economical for them, during recent supervised road tests, but they failed. However, they say they have no intention of slowing down. Most trucks go between 60 and 65 mph, most of the time. 91 of 1,000 truckers were cited for speeding last year; 67 of 1,000 regular drivers were cited. BIGGEST complaint of motorists against the truckers — TAILGATEING!

FOR THE FIRST time in several years, MEXICO's Gross National Product increase (5.6 per cent) will be greater than its population growth (3.5 per cent) in 1978. Last year, Mexico produced 5.5 million tons of steel; the 1978 production is expected to be 7 million tons. Mexico, like the U.S., has a balance-of-trade problem. Their economists expect their payment deficit to reach $1.2 billion by year's end. Mexico's inflation rate last year was 20.7 per cent. JAPAN, on the other hand, says it will have a trade SURPLUS of $23 billion by March of 1979.

OCCUPANCY RATES in San Diego hotels and motels reached 77 per cent, up 10 per cent over May of last year. Room rates also went up, from a daily rate of $28.50 in May of 1977 to $31.63 in 1978 . . . ALMOST EVEDYTHING is going up in San Diego, including bankruptcies — 1,282 since January; 301 in May alone.

SAN DIEGO NOW has more than 3.7 million telephones in operation, an increase of 4 per cent over last year . . . THE AVERAGE hourly pay for a factory worker in San Diego is $6.19 per hour . . . The chief of California prisons says there will be serious overcrowding — two men to a cell — unless funds are obtained for new men's facilities. State institutions now contain 18,196 men, up 1,200 since January.

BUILDING PERMIT valuations for construction in Southern California set a new record in May of this year — $912 million . . . CRUDE OIL production in MEXICO is just over 1 million barrels a day currently. An increase to 1.8 million barrels a day is expected by year's end. That translates into $2.5 billion for the Mexican economy.



P. Bruce Baker, manager of California First Bank's Lemon Grove office has been named vice president.

Baker has been with California First since 1964 and during that time has held a variety of branch management posts in San Diego county.

A native of Wyoming, Baker received his degree from the U. of Montana. He served as a lieutenant in the Navy prior to joining the bank.

He is currently treasurer of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club and is a member of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce.

California First is the state's eighth largest bank, with assets of $2.6 billion with 103 offices in California plus 3 overseas.

Cal. Housing Up

New housing starts in California in June increased sharply to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 305,000 unts, Bank of America reported.

This rate was an increase of 36 per cent from the revised May rate of 224,000 starts and an increase of 21 per cent above the same month last year. New apartment units started in June were up 97 per cent from the same period in 1977.

The sharp increase in housing starts and building permits in the state for June, bank economists said, was due in large measure to the efforts of builders to avoid the higher fees imposed following the passage of Proposition 13. However, a decline in residential building activity is expected in California in the closing months of 1978, they added.

The San Diego-Imperial chapter of the March of Dimes announced that a $12,000 social and behavorial research grant has been awarded to Dr. James W. Brown, a lecturer in the Department of Psychology, San Diego State University Foundation.

The grant is for the first year of a two-year study when Dr. Brown's group will investigate the ability of dangerously low birthweight infants (under four pounds) to respond to repeated or changed stimulations.

This was 13 percent below the June placement total of 3,980. But, for the current fiscal year (October through July), EDD has made 31,037 placements, compared with 28,210 in the same ten-month period of 1976-77. This an increase of 10 percent.

The corresponding figure for October through July 1975-76 was 23,633.

YOU AND YOUR PET

Urinary Block in Cats

Most cat owners are very pleased to see their pets regularly using the litter box. But those with male cats should know that too many visits can be a sign of serious urinary tract obstruction.

The problem begins when various factors, not all identified, cause minerals in the diet to form sand-like particles or stones in the cat's bladder. In female cats, the particles easily pass through the urethra (the outlet from the bladder) and are eliminated with the urine. In males, where the bladder outlet is more narrow, the mineral deposits are often trapped. Sometimes enough particles will collect to completely block the urethra and stop the passage of urine.

The signs of discomfort are fairly typical and an alert owner should suspect the nature of the problem. At first the cat will make frequent trips to the litterbox or outside in response to bladder pressure. Urination may still be possible, but the frequent trips are a clue that trouble is brewing.

As the condition progresses, the cat will become more uncomfortable and strain to urinate for several minutes at a time. Little or no urine will pass and the owner may interpret the problem as constipation. Unfortunately laxatives offer no help, and only waste valuable treatment time. As the pressure increases, the cat becomes very restless and may cry.

Complete urinary blockage is an emergency situation. Unless the blockage is removed, the animal will die of uremic poisoning as toxic wastes normally excreted in the urine accumulate in the bloodstream. At this point, professional assistance is desperately needed. Your veterinarian will anesthetize the cat, drain the bladder, and remove the obstruction.

In addition to treating the condition, your veterinarian will discuss with you steps to prevent future urethral blockage. They include:

- Increasing your cat's water intake so that minerals are flushed from the bladder before stones form. If your cat refuses to drink extra water, the addition of 1/4 teaspoon of salt to its food each day will increase water intake noticeably. Of course a bowl of fresh water should always be available.
- Revising your cat's diet. Food with a high ash or magnesium content (those containing whole fish or ground bone) seem to aggravate the condition. Moist canned food should be fed in preference to dry food, which contains only about 10 per cent water, or semi-moist food (25 percent water).

Very little is known about the exact cause of urinary blockage. High levels of minerals in the diet, previous urinary tract infections and a newly discovered virus seen in the bladder of afflicted cats may all contribute to the problem.

Industrial Park Space Scarce in SD County

Even though there is more industrial park space than ever in San Diego County, the available supply is getting smaller.

Only 5.5 per cent of the county's industrial park space is vacant, according to a survey reported recently by the Economic Research Bureau of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

The available total inventory was 437,422 square feet, according to the Chamber's monthly Economic Bulletin, out of a total supply of 7.97 million square feet of rentable industrial space.

Industrial park space has been growing the fastest in the East County, where 535,413 square feet now exists, twice the amount available in last year's survey. But, like elsewhere in the county, very little of it (2.5 per cent) is vacant.

Advance Fee Rental Agencies Shut Down

In a move to protect potential renters, the State Department of Real Estate (DRE) has shut down 13 advance fee rental agencies statewide and revoked the broker's license of a Rentex franchisee.

DRE Director David H. Fox ordered 11 of the advance fee rental businesses to halt their illegal operations for failure to obtain required licenses. Two more are charged with failing to provide potential renters with required refunds and contracts.

Fox also revoked the broker's license of John Willis King, 4323 El Cajon blvd., San Diego, operating as a Rentex franchisee, after a DRE investigation revealed a $13,000 trust fund shortage, and that King was refusing to give consumers required refunds and failing to properly supervise his employees.

Advance fee rental agencies, which are required to be licensed by the state, seek to provide consumers with current lists of available rental housing for fees generally ranging from $10 to $35.

"One of this department's basic goals is to guarantee full protetcion for potential renters by ensuring that advance fee rental agencies comply with all legal requirements," said Fox. Such protections include:

— providing customers with full refunds if the lists are not current or contain misleading information;

— refunding any amount over $10 to any person unable to find a rental through the use of the list.
